

We often say we need to catechize couples, but in many instances, the problem is not catechesis. The problem is evangelization. These people don't know Jesus. They do not have a relationship with Christ at all. So if you start giving catechesis, it doesn't mean anything to them.

There needs to be a more radical approach to bring Christ and his saving truth, and his love, to people a lot earlier in life, emphasizing that Christianity is not just a moral code. It's about a relationship with a person. The moral code only makes sense within the context of a personal relationship with Jesus Christ.
